BATTLE EXPECTED TO BE BIGGEST OF MEXICAN SCRAP

Villa Hurls Fifty Big Guns and Sixty Machines Against Entrenched Army of Carranza

PREPARATORY SCENE DRAMATIC

Loud Blaring of Bugles and Showy Calling of Orders Precede the Battle

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Nov. 1.—The battle of Agua Prieta, expected to be one of the biggest in the Mexican civil war, began shortly after noon today.

The Villa army, 10,000 to 15,000 strong, advanced to the attack within two hours after the artillery had been brought up behind a screen of cavalry. There were fifty large guns and sixty machine guns in the first line ranks that hurled themselves against the entrenched Carranza army at Agua Prieta.

Mexican refugees from Agua Prieta began streaming across the boundary into Douglas with the opening of the battle.

They were taken in charge by United States troops and escorted to an internment camp.

Troops Advance

Shortly afterwards the soldiers in advanced trenches on both sides advanced in skirmish formation and the fighting became general over a large territory to the south and east of the city.

Amid a blaring of bugles and horse orders given and carried out with considerable theatrical effect before the fight started, Villa uncovered 45 field pieces and about sixty machine guns.

Large forces of cavalry, which had reconnoitered to the Carranzanist trenches were seen to retire suddenly, revealing the guns being placed in position. Some were brought by columns of men pulling ropes, others were being dragged by his horse teams.

Villa received some reinforcements. Gen. Urbelleo was reported as coming with 3,000 additional troops.

Gen. Funston, coming to take charge of the American forces here, wired that he would arrive Tuesday morning.

General Calles, commander of the Carranza garrison, was reinforced early today by the arrival of the remainder of the 7,000 troops who came across American soil via Eagle Pass and Douglas.

Calles also has about 10,000 sol-

Abrogation Made In Deference To La Follette Act

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Great Britain has consented to the abrogation of the trade treaty with the United States, which would have prevented the operation of the La Follette seamen's act, so far as British seamen were concerned.

A new treaty will be negotiated unless the seamen's law is repealed at the coming session. The department recently advised the countries affected by the new law and its conflict with existing treaties, regarding the former condition of seamen.

So far Great Britain is the only country that has consented to the abrogation of existing treaties and negotiations of a new one. Two countries have asked the state department for information regarding the law's effect.

The provisions regarding foreign shipping do not go into effect until later, so the department is going slowly in abrogating treaties that have other favorable provisions.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE READY FOR FIGHT ATPOLLS TUESDAY

New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania Vote Tomorrow on Suffrage Issue

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Votes for Women leaders in three eastern states, cleared decks today for the opening of the greatest suffrage ballot battle in the history of the United States.

Nearly six million women may b given the right to vote as the result of balloting in New, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts tomorrow. Because of the unusually heavy registration in all three states, politicians today generally abstained from predictions as to the outcome.

In New York betting men took their cue from the prediction of Democratic State Chairman Osborn that suffrage would be defeated. They were offering slightly better than even money today.

Bettors in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts were reported to be taking the same view of the situation. Suffrage leaders, however, clung to their predictions of success by majorities from fifty thousand to 100,000 in each of the three states.

Issue Up in Holland

THE HAGUE, Nov. 1.—Universal woman suffrage is included among constitutional reforms which, it was announced today, the Netherlands government is contemplating.

Provision is also proposed for election of members of the second parliamentary chamber on the basis both of provincial representation and local proportionate populations.

The government announced also bills ratifying the peace treaty with the United States and an arbitration treaty with China.

WATER COMMISSION IS SUGGESTION OF STATE ACCOUNTANT

Recommendation Will Be Part of Rail Commission's Report on Survey of Department Here

PRESENT BOARD LACKS CONTROL

Authority Too Scattered and Irresponsible Declares Accountant Seifert

The board of public works' control of the water department is too indefinite. There should be a special water commission with authority over all matters pertaining to the department, similar to the park

This was the chief suggestion laid before the city government at a conference in the mayor's office this afternoon by H. O. Seifert an accountant of the railroad commission, who is here today in connection with the commission's survey of the water department.

Mr. Seifert believes that the control of the water department is too scattered and irresponsible, he told the conference of aldermen and city officials in the mayor's office. He advocates a definite location of all the records in one place, preferably under the care of the unpaid water commission, he suggested.

The recommendations of Mr. Seifert today will probably, he said, be made part of the commission's report when the result of the survey is sent to the city. He recommended that his suggestions be taken before the council for discussion, in order that there might be a basis for action when the commission's report is made.

The meeting was attended by the board of public works, the city clerk, treasurer, comptroller, engineer and attorney, and Aldermen P. W. Mahoney, B. C. Smith and Joseph C. Houska, in addition to the mayor.

SPEEDING MACHINE HITS OLD COUPLE SATURDAY NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. John Couvack Injured When Speeding Machine Strikes Rig and Refuses to Stop

Mr. and Mrs. John Couvack, aged groundkeeper at the La Crosse Country club and his wife, are suffering from severe bruises sustained Saturday night when an automobile, which failed to stop, struck their rig on State street near the intersection of the Green Bay railroad tracks.

Mr. and Mrs. Couvack had stopped their horse to let the animal drink from the fountain near the entrance to the Interstate fair grounds. Suddenly an automobile they describe as being very large and black, and bearing a number of people, approached at a terrific speed from the South Salem road. It struck their rig. Mr. and Mrs. Couvack were thrown out.

TEACHERS FIGHT FIRE

WAUSAU, Wis., Nov. 1.—Wausau school teachers, nearly eighty in number, helped form a bucket brigade at Junction City when the Hotel Voyer was afire. The teachers were returning from a meeting at Stevens Point, and were changing cars at Junction City, when the fire broke out.

ACTUAL INCREASE IN STATE TAXES LEVIED ON COUNTY

ROAD FUND FROM ANOTHER POCKET

Comes from General Fund This Year but the General Fund Comes from Taxpayers

RESULT OF JUGGLING IS FEARED

May Mean Deficit in General Fund and Require Imposition of Additional Tax Next Year

How state taxes are "reduced:"

	1914 apportionment for La Crosse county	1915 apportionment for La Crosse county
Interest on certificates of indebtedness	$ 2,172.04	$ 2,140.15
Free High schools	2,412.31	2,376.89
Graded schools	2,756.93	2,716.45
State university	16,401.92	16,806.66
Normal schools	7,289.74	7,469.62
General purposes		13.58
Chronic insane	230.95	300.80
State hospital	3,670.20	3,276.76
Home for feebleminded	2,812.65	2,891.81
Boys' Industrial school	296.55	266.17
Tuberculosis sanitarium	409.29	1,125.02
Northern hospital		70.45
Totals	$38,452.58	$39,454.36

Analysis of the tax apportionment statement sent to La Crosse county recently by the state treasurer shows that instead of a decrease of approximately $12,000, as shown on the face of the figures, there is an actual increase of $1,000 over 1914 in the amount the county must pay.

By a species of sleight of hand by which the county's share of the state's contribution to highway construction does not appear on the 1915 apportionment statement, the last legislature succeeded in making the apparent reduction on La Crosse county's figures—and the reduction, of course, is as speciously apparent in the figures for other counties.

Last year the state highway fund cost La Crosse county $13,784.63. With the thousand-dollar increase on legitimate state taxes this year, the amount exactly accounts for the apparent $12,000 "saving" which has been "effected" by "taking the money from another pocket."

In the figures shown herewith, the local contributions to the state highway fund and the common school fund have been omitted. Neither is a legitimate state tax, for the amount raised for both comes directly back to the counties for expenditure. As a matter of fact, last year La Crosse county received back more from the state highway fund than she contributed.

Analysis of the changes in the highway law made by the last legislature reveals the subterfuge by which the apparent saving is effected. Instead of levying the money directly upon the tax-payers through the counties, the legislature this year appropriated $785,000 for road construction FROM THE GENERAL FUND. The money, of course, comes from the tax-payers, as the general fund is raised from the income tax and other sources of state revenue. But by avoiding the direct levy, the highway tax is not placed in the statement of taxes which the county must contribute to the state.

Tax analysts who have been going over the figures carefully since their arrival in the hands of the county clerk, today pointed out an additional danger that the imposition of the unusual drain on the general fund may induce. The general fund is for the conduct of the state departments. The extraordinary $785,000 drain upon the fund, it is feared, may necessitate the imposition of an additional tax next year to make up a possible deficit caused up the upkeep of the departments.

RATES HELD UNFAIR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The interstate commerce commission today in the case of the St. Louis Merchants' exchange against the Chicago & Alton railroad, held that the Alton's proportional wheat rates from interior Missouri points to Chicago were unduly preferential of Chicago and prejudicial to St. Louis and East St. Louis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 30.—President Wilson and his fiancee, Mrs. Galt, made an unexpected visit to Annapolis today, accompanied by Mrs. Galt's brother, Secretary of State Lansing, Dr. Greyson and five secret service men.

ARTILLERY SHELLS NISH OUTER FORTS SERB PLIGHT WORSE

GERMANS ARE FAR TO SOUTHWARD

Drive Is Begun on Big Arsenal of Serbs in Northwest; French Engage Bulgars

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 1.—The Austro-Germans have captured Kragejevatz it was announced officially this afternoon.

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Nov. 1.—Bulgarian artillery from Kuyagevac and Pirot is bombarding the outer forts of Nish, according to a Sofia dispatch today.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Serbia's plight was growing rapidly worse today.

The Germans were fifty miles south of the Danube in places. Austrians, driving eastward from the direction of Vicegrad, were making some progress, though hampered by the Montenegrins who hung on their right flank. Bulgarian were already in force along an east and west line from their frontier to the Nish-Salonika railroad in the Veles and Uskub region. In smaller numbers this line extended to the westward of the railroad, with scouts, according to some accounts on the Albanian frontier. This front the Bulgars were trying to strengthen, so as effectually to cut the Serbian army in two.

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Nov. 1.—An Anglo-French naval bombardment of the Bulgarian Aegean coast was reported again in progress in a Sofia dispatch today, but no mention was made of a Russian attack on the Black sea coast, referred in messages from other sources.

From the northwest the Germans were directing a fierce drive against Kragujevac, site of the Serbians' big arsenal, sixty miles a little to the east of south of Belgrade. It is not quite in line with the Teutonic center's movement down the Morava valley but evidently was deemed of sufficient strategic importance for a minor diversion as an incident to the general advance.

Von Gallwitz Crushes Resistance

General von Gallwitz has crushed the Serbian resistance in the Razana region, sixty miles southwest of Belgrade and forty miles south of the Save river. Serbian positions northwest of Garni Milanovac (not to be confused with Milanovac which is farther east), fifty-five miles due south of Belgrade, had been taken by the invaders by storm.

The Serbian resistance was admittedly degenerating more and more into guerilla fighting which annoys but does not check the Teutonic invaders.

Opposing the Bulgarians, the French, considerably weaker forces of British and the comparatively small number of Serbians in that region, are concentrating along an east and west line from the vicinity of Strumnitza, Bulgaria, to or near the Albanian frontier.

Skirmishing along the allies and Bulgarian fronts was already in progress today, which promised to develop into a big battle.

The allies' artillery is superior to the Bulgarians but the former are outnumbered and reinforcements are slow in coming, despite stories that they are on the way.

Rumania's expected permission to Russia to send troops across its soil diers now. Having sent his cavalry horses into the United States with the consent of Brig.-General Thomas

Youthful Prodigy Enters University At Age of 14 Years

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 1.—The youngest student at the University of Wisconsin is only 14 years of age. He is Frank A. Ross, the oldest son of Prof. E. A. Ross of the department of sociology of the university. Ross received his early preparatory training at home as a pupil of his mother, instead of going to school as the other children. This instruction lasted three hours a day, the remainder of the time he was allowed to play with the other boys of the neighborhood and engage in out-of-door sports. He spent one year in the graded school and entered the university high school.

FIREMEN HAVE NOT HAD MUCH TO DO HERE THIS YEAR

Losses for Ten Months Are $26,661 Less Than for Last Year According to Bradfield Report

HALF HUNDRED FEWER BLAZES

If No Large Fires Occur in Sixty Days City Will Come Far Below 1914 Mark

Fire losses to property in the city of La Crosse during the ten months of the present year are $26,661 less than the total loss during 1914, according to a report made public today by Chief of the Fire Department Nathan Bradfield. The statement shows fifty-eight less fires so far this year than last.

Financial damages by fire this year reaches the sum of $27,065. The total loss in La Crosse last year was $53,766. In 1914 there were 158 fire alarms turned in. Thus far in 1915 there have been but 100 fires.

"If no large fires occur during the next sixty days," said Chief Bradfield today, "the fire loss in La Crosse this year will fall far below that of last year, and it is probable that nothing will happen to bring the total to the enormous loss on 1914." The largest fire loss this year was the burning of the Logan school on the north side. The damage was approximately $5,000 was felt. The recent fire at the old Peter Limoseth blacksmith shop at Fifth street and Mormon coulee road caused a damage of $3,200. The burning of the Milwaukee railroad's ice house on the north side brought a loss of $2,500. The recent fire which destroyed the Burroughs' hay barn on the old Goddard estate at Grand Crossing, also raised the total fire loss for the first ten months of the year."

January of the present year holds the record for the largest number or fires, with nineteen. The loss that month was $4,193. Financially, October, 1915, is the record holder, with a total loss of $7,553.

Losses by month and the numbers of fires during the ten months of 1915 folow:

January—fourteen fires, loss $4,193; February—five fires, loss $2,210; March, nineteen fires, loss $5,903; April—eight fires, loss $23; May—five fires, loss $1,023; June—eleven fires, loss $1,330; July—nine fires, loss $2,530; August—ten fires, loss, $1,570; September—seven fires, loss $730; October—twelve fires, loss, $7,553.

STEAMER LLAMA IS GROUNDED OFF SCOTTISH COAST

HOCKING BROUGHT TO HALIFAX

Vessel Given Over to Prize Crew After Being Stopped By Warship

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The American steamer Llama was seized by a British prize crew and afterward run aground off the coast of Scotland yesterday, according to a report today to the state department by the American consul at Dundee, Scotland.

No reasons for the seizure of the vessel were given.

A later dispatch to the state department said the Llama was in a sinking condition and probably could not be saved. The crew of 29 was landed.

The seizure of another American vessel, the Hocking, by a British warship, was also reported today to the state department. American Consul Young of Halifax wired that the Hocking was brought into Halifax yesterday in command of a British prize crew, after having been halted by British warships patrolling the American coast off New York.

Consul Young merely reported the arrival of the vessel under British authorities and that he would send details later regarding the seizure. His message did not report the cause of the British warships' action.

State department officials, in the absence of complete reports from the American consul regarding the Hocking, would not attempt to explain the seizure. They indicated that the seizure may be the beginning of a new British policy regarding neutral ships suspected of being engaged in German trade. The Hocking formerly was the Danish vessel Gronland and was transferred to American registry. She was said to be among the ships black-listed by England, in a recent order prohibiting use by British merchants of certain neutral ships suspected of being in unneutral trade.

Great Britain's defense of its toppage of trade between American shippers and traders in neutral Netherlands and Scandinavian countries, on the ground that goods sent there really are destined for the central powers, will not be accepted as satisfactory by the United States. This much was made certain today when United States Consul General Skinner, stationed at London, arrived in Washington for a conference with Secretary Lansing.

"It is true," said Skinner, "that American exports to the Netherlands have increased to a suspicious degree. But this does not mean that England's contention is correct. It means simply that goods to those countries formerly distributed out of Hamburg, Bremen and Antwerp are now all sent to Holland ports.

"England's defense of its holding up of American goods, therefore, cannot be justified by any general argument that American traders are not acting in good faith."

Because of Skinner's activity in presenting the American stand on the blockade, there was a rumor today that he would no longer be satisfactory to the English government. Secretary Lansing however, denied this and said that so far as he knew Skinner will return to London.

Publication within a few days of this government's last note to England protesting against the order in council and other trade interferences was forecasted officially today. A statement regarding Skinner's personal report may follow. The British note was due to arrive today in London in the hands of Alexander C. Kirk, third secretary of the American embassy at Berlin, acting as special messenger to Ambassador Page.

Upon Skinner's report largely depends this government's action regarding the British prize court decision confiscating $15,000,000 worth of Chicago meat packers cargoes and detaining twenty-nine other meat ships.

WILSON-GALT WEDDING WILL BE IN DECEMBER AT MRS. GALT'S HOME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt will be married "near the close of December," it was officially announced this afternoon.

The announcement was made, it was stated, for the purpose of putting a stop to the numerous rumors regarding the date and place of the ceremony.

The announcement issued today reads as follows:

"In order to quiet speculation, President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt today authorized the announcement that their marriage will take place near the close of December. Their plans are for a very simple ceremony. It will be quietly performed at Mrs. Galt's residence. No invitations will be issued and it is expected that the only guests will be the members of the two families."

The limitation of the guest list to the members of the two families comes as a disappointment, but no great surprise, to Washington society.

The home of Mrs. Galt would scarcely accommodate more than fifty persons.

It is likely, however, that the wedding will be followed by an elaborate reception at the White house.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Party
The Animal Crackers Had.

"A STORY, daddy, a story!" cried Jack and Evelyn when daddy sat down in his armchair.

"One night at the very stroke of midnight the animal crackers decided to have a party. So they kicked and they kicked till they burst a hole through their paper bag and tumbled right out on to the kitchen floor," daddy started off.

"'Heigh, ho!' bellowed the elephant, stretching his trunk, which had been very cramped in the bag. 'This is more like the jungle!' He ran around between the chair legs, imagining they were tree trunks. 'First good drink I've had in a century!' roared the lion, lapping up a few drops of water under the sink. 'Hoorah,' neighed the horse, 'but this is a fine race track!' and he trotted up and down a stripe of the linoleum on the kitchen floor.

"'If we only had some music we could dance,' suggested the giraffe, and, with his long neck, he set the coffee mill grinding, which really ground out a very pleasing waltz. So the elephant grabbed the lady dromedary and wrapped his trunk around her bumpy waist. The lion chose the dog for a partner and stood him up on his hind legs so he would be tall enough to grasp. The horse stopped trotting and bowed to the cow, who clumsily courtesied and took his foreleg. And the clever giraffe wound his neck lovingly around the lady zebra's, swinging her off to the delightful music of the coffee mill."

"Who waltzed with the squirrel?" asked Evelyn, who always chose the cracker squirrel first for supper.

"The cracker rabbit, of course," said daddy. "Then the animals all changed partners, and the elephant took all the small ones on his back and danced a solo to opera music that the coffee mill happened to remember. Then, just to show off, the lion tangoed with the cow, and every cracker of the bag was having just the jolliest fun, when the sun peeked in at them through the window.

"'Sunup!' trumpeted the elephant, looking wildly around for the bag. But he was too late. The sunshine took all joy and motion out of them, and all the animals keeled over and lay limp and lifeless on the kitchen floor.

"'My soul,' cried the cook, coming down a few minutes later, 'but those rats do make a muss of my kitchen! I shall have to get a nice tabby cat or a good rat trap.'

"She grabbed her broom and swept the poor animal crackers up into a crude heap, which she then dustpanned into the garbage pail."

"That was a lovely, funny story, daddy!" cried the children.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

HER CHARM

BY CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"So you've invited Ned Allen to your party," remarked Mrs. Hendrix, pursing her lips in disapproval.

Dorry looked up from her sewing, a faint color fading into her cheeks.

"But after his escapade—"

"Mother, dear!" protested Dorry, "you know he was enonerated from all blame in the matter of the missing papers, and even Mr. Tuttle said that Ned had been unjustly accused."

"Henry Tuttle said the same thing to me—both father and son are generous enough to give Ned the benefit of the doubt, but of course, I wouldn't have you slight Ned, my dear. In a small town like Highway such things are very noticeable—but I am afraid he will not have a very agreeable time."

"I shall take pains that Ned does have a good time," said Dorry, her head bent low over her needlework.

Mrs. Hendrix cast a sharp glance at her daughter. She didn't want Dorry to become interested in Ned Allen when Henry Tuttle was eager to marry her—father and son had both spoken to Dorry's mother.

"Ask Ned if you like, Dorry," said Mrs. Hendrix, "but don't fuss too much over him; it will appear as though you really thought he needed pity, when if he has done no wrong he can stand independently among our other young men."

The village streets rang with merriment as crowds of young people in fantastic costumes wended their way to the Hendrix home, a large colonial structure crowning a wooded slope

The guests were masked and there was much fun and not a little perplexity when they entered the large parlors where Amos Hecker was playing the cornet while his wife and daughter accompanied him on violin and piano.

The decorations were strictly in accordance with the season, and jack-o'-lanterns took the place of lamps and streamers of gaily colored autumn leaves trimmed the walls and doorways, while black paper cats and witches peered at one from every nook and corner.

Dorry, garbed as a Puritan maiden, was without a mask, and she gave gay greeting to her unknown guests as they filed before her. Some she recognized by voice or gesture. Henry Tuttle she knew by a familiar ring on his little finger; otherwise she would never have distinguished him from Ned Allen, for they were both of the same height and general appearance and by a singular coincidence both had chosen to assume the dress of a century ago.

There was another stranger present, a mender, whose identity no one could guess.

Then came Ned Allen, holding his head with the same confident air that marked his bearing before papers had been missed from the bank and Ned Allen, the cashier, had been accused of making way with them. The Tuttles—Mr. Tuttle was president of the bank and Henry was vice president—had exonerated Ned, but he had not been reinstated, and the finger of suspicion still babbled about him.

Ned bent over Dorry's little head. "I hope my coming will not embarrass you, Dorry," he murmured.

"No, indeed, Ned! We are honored!" said Dorry, with flushed cheeks and shining eyes.

"Thank you," he said as he passed on, and there was more than gratitude in his tone.

Hallowe'en parties are much alike, and Dorry's was no excuse to the general rule. They played the same old games and danced the old-fashioned dances to the playing of the Hecker family.

"I am a fortune teller, friends," he cackled shrilly. "Who consults me may receive a charm against good or evil fortune, and I will read the past and the future for him."

At once he was surrounded by the gay crowd, and his fortune telling was so wittily enlivened that the room rang with laughter. Once he came close to Henry Tuttle and whispered:

"Please point out to me a young man named Tuttle."

And Henry coolly nodded toward Ned Allen, who stood near by. Five minutes afterward Henry Tuttle had disappeared from the rooms.

Dorry Hendrix had heard question and answer, and Henry's duplicity had startled her. Who was the umbrella mender and what did he want of Henry and why had Henry lied?

The umbrella mender was gradually making his way toward the spot where Ned Allen, brave in knee-breeches and coat of blue satin, was waiting his turn to have his palm read by the quasi-fortune teller, who was giving tiny metal trinkets right and left.

"This, young woman, will insure you against spinsterhood," he said to one; "and you, sir, will find this charm will soften the heart of an obdurate father, and this one will compel the love of the girl you desire—" and so on.

"What nonsense!" murmured Mrs. Hendrix, impatiently. "Who is the man, Dorry?"

"I don't know, mother.—Listen, he is speaking to Ned."

A little silence fell upon the room as the fortune teller bent low over Ned Allen's hand. Perhaps curiosity prompted some to wonder if the fortune teller might not reveal the guilt or innocence of Ned Allen.

"Young man," said the fortune teller briskly, "I can see that you are going to propose to some charming girl before the clock strikes midnight—you will live long and happily —and—just favor me with your thumb print, sir, you know I am making a collection of them—a hobby of mine—even an umbrella mender may ride a hobby. Thank you, sir—ah!"

Amid subdued laughter the umbrella mender held a strip of glass to the light, and turned and stared at Ned Allen through the eyehole of his mark, then hastily tore off his own mask and revealed a nut-cracker face convulsed with anger and surprise.

"Henry Tuttle," he commanded sternly, "remove your mask!"

Ned laughed. "You are mistaken, good seer—I have not the honor to be Henry Tuttle!"

"Prove it!" snapped the other.

Ned tore off the mask and faced the room.

"Ned Allen!" A score of voices breathed his name convincingly.

"He is not here," said Mrs. Hendrix with much displeasure. "May I inquire who you are, sir, and why you have chosen to make a disturbance at my house?"

The little man whipped out a card and gave it to her.

"Yes," he said brusquely. "I want Henry Tuttle—for the theft of the Waybrook securities."

Somewhere outside was the throbbing of a motor engine.

"Then you better beat it!" laughed a masculine voice. "That's Hen Tuttle's automobile and it's a racer, too!"

The detective disappeared and after a while excitement was subdued and the dancing went on. It was nearly midnight and there were preparations to perform the time honored rites and ceremonies characteristic of Hallowe'en.

"Look, Dorry," said Ned quietly.

"That is my charm, Dorry," said Ned. "The fortune teller predicted that I would ask someone to marry me tonight—and that we would live long and happily. Oh, Dorry, as if I needed his advice! You know I have loved you always—are you afraid to trust yourself to a man who bears the stigma of—"

"Of innocence?" interrupted Dorry with spirit. "No, Ned, I am not afraid. And although the fortune teller did not give me a charm—I bear a charm that—" She blushed and hid her face against his arm.

"Tell me about your charm, sweetheart," he whispered.

"It's my love for you, Ned—it is always in my heart. Is there a greater charm against unhappiness?"

CABARETS CLOSED

MINNEAPOLIS, Min., Nov. 1.—The cabaret is a thing of the past in Minneapolis. With curfew Saturday night, all music except that of orchestras was banished from cafes and this city took upon itself the burden of existing without the raggy songs of the troubadors. The closing order was issued by the mayor.

SALOONS GIVEN LIFE

HIBBING, Minn., Nov. 1.—Saloons here were given a week's life when Federal District Judge Morris issued a temporary restraining order against their closing, because the city is on "Indian lid" ground.

WINONA, Minn., Nov. 1.—Everett F. Tawney, son of former Congressman James A. Tawney of Winona, will become a special agent in the customs service at Yokohama, Japan, according to information received here by local relatives.

ROCHESTER HAS SPOOKY NIGHT

ROCHESTER, Minn., Nov. 1.—Thrown into total darkness by a famine of electricity resulting from the destruction of the city lighting plant by fire, all Rochester Saturday was busy resurrecting wicker candles, kerosene lamps and other means of illumination used before the advent of "juice." And it was a spooky night for the town to go dark—on Hallowe'en.

The candle and lamp market was early exhausted and rush orders reached the city by express.

SUITS, DRESSES, SILKS

Use gasoline to dry clean everything at home and save $5 in an hour.

Dry cleaning at home is all the rage here, says a well-known downtown druggist. Any woman can do five dollars' worth of dry cleaning at home at very little cost by dissolving two ounces of solvite in two gallons of gasoline; then immerse the articles to be cleaned; rub a little and in a few moments the gasoline evaporates and the articles cleaned look as bright and fresh as new.

Dry clean your own silk waists, dresses, ribbons, belts, kid gloves, satin shoes, evening slippers, fine laces, net work, woolens, dresses, children's coats, furs, veils, neckties, shawls, gentlemen's garments, fancy vests, lace curtains, rugs, in fact, everything that would be ruined by washing with soap and water. Nothing will fade, shrink or wrinkle, making pressing unnecessary.

Dry cleaning at home is inexpensive and effects a tremendous saving in the household and is really just as easy as laundering. Any druggist will sell two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap and your grocer or a garage will supply the gasoline. Then a wash boiler or dishpan completes the outfit.

AS HALLOWE'EN SHOULD BE

It's all over, and no lives lost. Clotheslines suffered, and women who cleaned house early are more or less petulant about certain soapy windows, but when the rubbish is cleared away and the city rearranged La Crosse will be quite its old self, thankful that the courthouse was not found on top of the Light and Power company's new stack.

It is too late for this year and it is a long way to the next Hallowe'en, but there is in the following from the Duluth News-Tribune a suggestion which urges itself upon us:

To Duluth belongs the credit of having invented the prankless Hallowe'en. Instead of the police force being increased to chase the boys, they have now this far pleasanter occupation of entertaining them.

Instead of the boys making the night miserable for their elders and doing a lot of things that for a moment seemed fun, but most of them destructive or "ornery," they now have real fun, genuine boy fun. They do not have to sneak away from home nor sneak back; they do not have to dodge policemen, nor feel sorry when their strings trip and injure some elderly man or woman and their water cans drench those who cannot afford spoiled clothes. They go home with clear consciences after the rousing best time of their lives.

It will be in charge of Mr. Batchelor, supervisor of playgrounds, and Colonel Cleveland of the parks. There will be a huge bonfire, the mystic parade, spooks, hob-goblins, games, marshmallow roast, apples and thousands upon thousands of boys and girls, regardless of age, all still boys and girls.

It will be a genuine Hallowe'en, true to its origin and history, but cleared of its later day folly of destruction, near criminality, deviltry and accident. It is something no boy can resist. When put up against sneaking up dark alleys and tearing things to pieces, the big bonfire, the rosy apples, the confections, the masks, dances and pranks won. They will win again and instead of the night being a dread to the staid and peaceful, to the police and city authorities, it becomes a gala night of unalloyed jollity and good fellowship.

La Crosse, with its splendid playground system, with many experienced men who could organize such a Hallowe'en program, might profit by Duluth's experience.

NOT ENTIRELY CONVINCING

Two illustrations used by Capt. F. H. Fowler in his discussion of naval and military conditions in the United States, suggesting the advisability of a greater military and naval establishment, seem to us open to question.

Captain Fowler is quoted as having said that a regular army of 50,000 men, at the outbreak of the Civil war, would have prevented that struggle.

Passing the probability that the slave question, purely sectional upon a fairly even division, could not have been solved without bloodshed, it may be said that such an army might have terminated the controversy by the successful secession of the southern states. Had the army been largely enlisted from the south, with a preponderance of southern officers, it is not impossible that its power would have been turned against the government. So, in a country recruited from many nations, under democratic rule, an army can never be the solid fighting unit such machines become under the sovereignty of those who rule by inheritance.

The capture of Washington by a "small expeditionary force" in the War of 1812 was also cited. We did not win this fight. It was won by England's European foes. But we were not defeated and we were unprepared.

If one objects on the ground that so far as we had a part in it the War of 1812 was won on the water, we reply that perhaps it was, but American history points with pride to the fact that Admiral Perry's flagship was timber in the forest but forty days before it was launched. Surely, preparedness did not win the battle of Lake Erie.

However, even admitting the possibility that Captain Fowler's interpretations are not all necessarily correct, or assuming that Bismarck's ejaculation that "God takes care of children and the United States" does not fully explain our immunity from the destruction which strong policies and small armies invite, there is no discounting the value of that information upon the state of our national defenses—or the lack of them—which he is disseminating in this community.

WHERE IS SUB-SEA WARFARE NOW?

Perhaps one should "touch wood" upon approaching the subject, but what has become of submarine warfare on merchantmen?

It is good to conclude that, even in the stress and hardness of war, Germany is not deaf to the appeal of humanity.

It is pleasant to reflect that not in the history of American diplomacy has a cleaner and more important diplomatic achievement been reached.

To assume that Germany, which is daring battle with most of the European world, fears the negligible arms of this nation, would be foolish presumption. That Germany's rulers value the respect and good will of the United States must be accepted as the explanation.

That conclusion gives to the outcome of this international incident its greatest value. America took a position that would stand the test of time. Germany had the good sense to realize this fact. With exceptional skill on the part of both nations a radical change in an important department of modern warfare was brought about, a crisis weathered, without loss of dignity to either party.

Psychology of Pockets

To prove how undeveloped is the growing urchin's mind,
Turn out a small boy's pockets, and these treasures you will find:
A top, six rusty shingle nails, a hank of dirty string,
A snake (defunct), a railroad spike, a battered napkin ring,
A broken file, a rubber ball, some bits of broken rock,

To prove that lovely woman is deficient in the brain,
Turn out her leather handbag, which is likely to contain:
A cancelled transfer, 30 cents, some frazzled squares of silk,
A fragment of a recipe for sterilizing milk,
A pointless pencil, seven stamps, some powder and a puff,
A shopping list, some scissors and a manicuring buff.

To prove that man's a creature of tremendous intellect,
Go through his clothes some morning and you'll readily collect:
A dry and useless fountain pen, a knife that will not cut,
Some scribbled dates, a paper book entitled How to Putt,
Four keys to locks long gone to rust, five crumpled dollar bills,
A box of sticky cough drops and six numbered billiard pills.

—Pittsburgh Post.

At a dinner and theater party recently given in Washington a beautiful debutante was frightened beyond measure because Senator Blank had been selected for her escort. The poor girl was almost in tears from nervousness.

"But, mother," she protested, "whatever can I talk to him about?"

The mother smiled. "You'll like him, dear; every one does."

It was late that night when the debutante came running into her mother's boudoir, a happy flush on her young cheek. "I've had a perfectly dandy time," she announced, "and I thing the senator's fine. He isn't at all like I expected him to be. Why we hadn't gone two blocks before we were talking about fleas in Italian hotels!"—Everybody's Magazine.

A certain little girl evidently has listened long and earnestly to her mother's discourses upon the obligations of the husband and father, judging from her answer to her school teacher recently. The teacher asked:

"What is the most wonderful thing man has done?"

Mary's hand shot up instantly. The teacher smiled, nodded to the child and leaned back expectantly.

"Support his family," piped Mary, in her shrillest voice.

At a circus recently a lion died. The manager, seeing his friend Pat walking along the street, mentioned it to him, whereupon Pat offered to take the place of the African lion and dress in the latter's skin. A trial performance was gone through, and Pat answered admirably, his "roaring" being most lifelike. When the circus was opened Pat was seen in the lion's den, the keeper, with a pitchfork, keeping him up to "concert" form. The climax was reached when the keeper drove Pat into the tiger's cage, Pat was now extremely frightened and rushed round and round the cage to escape the infuriated tiger. He was about to collapse when a hoarse whisper came from the mouth of the pursuing tiger:

"'Tis all right, Pat, boy; don't be afraid. I only came here on the excursion and was too late for the train to get home to Waterford."

In Montana a railway bridge had been destroyed by fire and it was necessary to replace it. The bridge engineer and his staff were ordered in haste to the place. Two days later came the superintendent of the division. Alighting from his private car, he encountered the old master bridge builder.

"Bill," said the superintendent—and the words quivered with energy—"I want this job rushed. Every hour's delay costs the company money. Have you got the engineer's plans for the new bridge?"

"I don't know," said the bridge builder, "whether the engineer has got the picture drawed yet or not, but the bridge is up and the trains is passin' over it."—Harper's Magazine.

The minister while on a visit to a neighboring parish was justly proud of having induced Sandy, the local blacksmith, a confirmed old toper, to sign the pledge. Having occasion again to visit the district, he took the opportunity to call on Sandy to see whether his pledge was still holding good.

"Yes," replied Sandy to the minister's anxious inquiry, "I haven't touched a drap of anything for a whole month. I never thocht I could hae done without so lang."

"Well done," replied his reverence with very evident satisfaction. "I suppose you find you can save a little now?"

"Aw," said Sandy, "I've saved enough to buy me a braw oak coffin wi' brass handles, and if I'm teetotal for anither month I'll be in it."

RELEASE OF GOODS EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1, — Although less than $12,000,000 worth of German and Austrian goods of American importers bought before March 1 and held up in neutral ports by England's embargo have so far been released through the trade advisors, state department officials today expressed belief in ultimate release of merchandise worth many more millions. They resented reports that British concessions in releasing goods have been small.

KAZAN

By James Oliver Curwood

Author of The Danger Trail, The Honor of The Big Snows, Philip Steele, Etc.

Copyright, 1914, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

And his appearance was changing as well as his view of things. His round roly-poly body was taking a different form. He became lithe and quick. The yellow of his coat darkened, and there was a whitish-gray streak along his back like that along Kazan's. He had his mother's underthroat and her beautiful grace of head. Otherwise he was a true son of Kazan. His limbs gave signs of future strength and massiveness. He was broad across the chest. His eyes were wide apart, with a little red in the lower corners. The forest people know what to expect of husky pups who early develop that drop of red. It is a warning that they are born of the wild and that their mothers, or fathers, are of the savage huntpacks. In Baree that tinge of red was so pronounced that it could mean but one thing. While he was almost half dog, the wild had claimed him forever.

Not until the day of his first real battle with a living creature did Baree come fully into his inheritance. He had gone farther than usual from the windfall—fully a hundred yards. Here he found a new wonder. It was the creek. He had heard it before and he had looked down on it from afar—from a distance of fifty yards at least. But today he ventured going to the edge of it, and there he stood for a long time, with the water rippling and singing at his feet, gazing across it into the new world that he saw. Then he moved cautiously along the stream. He had not gone a dozen steps when there was a furious fluttering close to him, and one of the fierce big-eyed jays of the Northland was directly in his path. It could not fly. One of its wing dragged, probably broken in a struggle with some one of the smaller preying beasts. But for an instant it was a most startling and defiant bit of life to Ba-ree.

Then the grayish crest along his back stiffened and he advanced. The wounded jay remained motionless until Ba-ree was within three feet of it. In short quick hops it began to retreat. Instantly Ba-ree's indecision had flown to the four winds. With one sharp excited yelp he flew at the defiant bird. For a few moments there was a thrilling race, and Baree's sharp little teeth buried themselves in the jay's feathers. Swift as a flash the bird's beak began to strike. The jay was the king of the smaller birds. In nesting season it killed the brush sparrows, the mild-eyed moose-birds, and the tree-sappers. Again and again it struck Baree with its powerful beak, but the son of Kazan had now reached the age of battle and the pain of the blows only made his own teeth sink deeper. At last he found the flesh, and a puppyish snarl rose in his throat. Fortunately he had gained a hold under the wing and after the first dozen blows the jay's resistance grew weaker. Five minutes later Baree loosened his teeth and drew back a step to look at the crumpled and motionless creature before him. The jay was dead. He had won his first battle. And with victory came the wonderful dawning of that greatest instinct of all, which told him that no longer was he a drone in the marvelous mechanism of wilderness life—but a part of it from this time forth. For he had killed.

Half an hour later Gray Wolf came down over his trail. The jay was torn into bits. Its feather were scattered about and Ba-ree's little rose was bloody. Ba-ree was lying in triumph beside his victim. Swiftly Gray Wolf understood and caressed him joyously. When they returned to the windfall Ba-ree carried in his jaws what was left of the jay.

From that hour of his first kill kill hunting became the chief passion of Ba-ree's life. When he was not sleeping in the sun, or under the windfall at night, he was seeking life that he could destroy. He slaughtered an entire family of wood-mice. Moose-birds were at first the easiest for him to stalk, and he killed three. Then he encountered an ermine and the fierce little white outlaw of the forests gave him his first defeat. Defeat cooled his ardor for a few days, but taught him the great lesson that there were other fanged and flesh-eating animals besides himself and that nature had so schemed things that fang must not prey upon fang—for food. Many things had been born in him. Instinctively he shunned the porcupine without experiencing the torture of its quills. He came face to face with a fisher-cat one day, a fortnight after his fight with the ermine. Both were seeking food, and as there was no food between them to fight over, each went his own way.

Farther and farther Ba-ree ventured from the windfall, always following the creek. Sometimes he was gone for hours. At first Gray Wolf was restless when he was away, but she seldom went with him and after a time her restlessness left her. Nature was working swiftly. It was Kazan who was restless now. Moonlight nights had come and the wanderlust was growing more and more insistent in his veins. And Gray Wolf, too, was filled with the strange longing to roam at large out into the big world.

Came then the afternoon when Ba-ree went on his longest hunt. Half a mile away he killed his first rabbit. He remained beside it until dusk. The moon rose, big and golden, flooding the forests and plains and ridges with a light almost like that of day. It was a glorious night. And Ba-ree found the moon, and left his kill. And the direction in which he traveled was away from the windfall.

All that night Gray Wolf watched and waited. And when at last the moon was sinking into the south and west she settled back on her haunches, turned her blind face to the sky and sent forth her first howl since the day Ba-ree was born. Nature had come into her own. Far away Ba-ree heard, but he did not answer. A new world was his. He had said good-by to the windfall—and home.

CHAPTER XII.

The Usurpers.

It was that glorious season between spring and summer, when the northern nights were brilliant with moon and stars, that Kazan and Gray Wolf set up the valley between the two ridges on a long hunt. It was the beginning of that wanderlust which always comes to the furred and padded creatures of the wilderness immediately after the young-born of early spring have left their mothers to find their own way in the big world. They struck west from their winter home under the windfall in the swamp. They hunted mostly at night and behind them they left a trail marked by the partly eaten carcasses of rabbits and partridges. It was the season of slaughter and not of hunger. Ten miles west of the swamp they killed a fawn. This, too, they left after a single meal. Their appetites became satiated with warm flesh and blood. They grew sleek and fat and each day they basked longer in the warm sunshine. They had few rivals. The lynxes were in the heavier timber to the south. There were no wolves. Fisher-cat, marten and mink were numerous along the creek, but these were neither swift-hunting nor long-fanged.

Cleanse The Blood Banish Rheumatism

Rheumatism Due to Bad Blood. S. S. S. Your Remedy

Thousands have been made well. People in the poorest health, suffering from Rheumatism, with whom pain was constant. Who believed that their vitality was sapped beyond repair. It was proven to them that the cause of their trouble was the blood; that Uric Acid, the most faithful ally of Rheumatism, had gripped them. The poison in the blood had sapped its strength. The weakened blood had allowed poison and impurities to accumulate, and all energy was gone They felt "poorly," were listless, pain was ever present, with poor digestion and dyspepsia. They tried S. S. S.—nature's blood tonic. They gave up drugs. This compound of nature's remedies of roots and herbs did what drugs failed to do. It literally washed the blood free from poison, and with the flow of pure blood came back health, strength, vigor and happines. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. Insist upon S. S. S. If yours is a long standing case, write for special advice to S. S. S. Co., Atlanta, Ga., but begin taking S. S. S. at once.

FIGURES KNOWN IN LA CROSSE FEATURE VAUDEVILLE BILL

HEAD TO COME wtfl L gb(b f

In the Stroud Trio, and Ward and Terry in "The Frame-Up," feature acts of an exceptionaly good bill of vaudeville at the La Crosse theater the first half of the present week, are footlight artists well known to La Crosse theater goers.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Stroud and their tiny daughter, "Baby Violet," who offer "A Day in Songland," are residents of Hastings, Minn., and Violet's grandfather, H. K. Stroud, of Hastings, is a pioneer railroad man of the Milwaukee system's River division. He now holds the position of water superintendent of this part of the railroad. They are old-timers in the vaudeville game and offer an entertainment of songs, which "Baby Violet" features, and which brought down the house at yesterday's matinee performance. The pretty little girl made her debut in vaudeville in San Francisco at the age of three years.

Jean Ward will probably be remembered by many as "Rosalind," in "Rosalind at Redgate," which played at the La Crosse theater a few years ago. Miss Ward had a dual characterization. She played "Sister Helen," also, in the piece. Harrison J. Terry, her husband, played the part of "Pickering," in the "House of a Thousand Candles," another former hit at the local playhouse. Both played last year in the "Within the Law" company in the east. Miss Ward was the first moving picture star to perform in front of the lens on the Pacific coast. She was then with the Selig company, and her face is familiar from coast to coast.

The act which the pair offer is a drama with a comedy ending. The critic would cheat the vaudeville "fan" were he to give away their finale. The plot of their playlet is a melo-dramatic detective story.

Harris and Kress open the exceptional bill with a novel roller skating act which is highly entertaining. Dave Ferguson isa monoligst in a class all by himself. He keeps the audience in a continuous roar.

There probably never was a cycling act as a La Crosse "vaud" house which carried the number and variety of bicycles which the Welling, Levering Troupe use. They offer a cycling skit called "Fun at a Country Fair," and they ride wheels wonderfully.

The bill also offers the first installment of Kleine's new "Around the World in Fifty-two Weeks," a series of travel pictures which are heralded as the best ever. The pictures take you from New York City to Genoa, Italy. The steamer leaves the Statute of Liberty and reaches southern Europe in the installment being shown the first half of the present week.

The usual matinee s given this afternoon, but there will be no performance tonight.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE!

People Notice It. Drive Them Off With Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, the bowels and the liver with Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are the successful substitute for calomel—there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

COPELAND PARK FOOTBALL TEAM DEFEATS SPARTA

Second High School Team, Strengthened by Alex Nichols, First Team Man, Lose Saturday

The Copeland Park football team, composed of north side stars, defeated the Sparta high school second eleven Saturday afternoon at Copeland park by a score of 12 to 6. The Sparta aggregation was bolstered up by the acquisition of Alex Nichol, first team halfback of last year's gridiron team, and several students at the local normal. Nichol is said to be ineligible for the first team of the Sparta schoo', owing to scholastic difficulties. He played at the pivot position, halfback and center in the game Saturday.

The north side team was the first to score, Quarterback La Fore plunging across the line in the first quarter. The attempt at goal mas missed. The final marker of the game was made by the Copeland park team in the last five minutes of play when Dwyer, left halfback, blocked an attempted Sparta punt near the visitor's goal. Shivers scooped up the pigskin on the five yard line and ran for a touchdown. Goal was missed.

Sparta made their lone marker in the third quarter on a forward pass. The visitors, although heavier than the north side team by ten pounds to the man, were outplayed throughout the game, the speed and precision with which the locals got their plays under way offsetting the beefiness of the visitors.

The Copeland park team will line up against the second normal bunch in a preliminary to the River Falls-Normal game to be fought out a week from Saturday.

The north side team lined up with Swennes and M. Gibson, ends; Casperson and Whittenberg, tackles; Shivers and Gittens, guards; Pierce, center; La Fore, quarterback; Ritter, fb.; Dwyer, lhb; Franke, rhb.

Professor Harry Spence refereed the game.

Several hundred people lined the sidelines in Copeland park to see the two teams fight through the four quarters.

BADGER RUNNERS BEAT MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 1.—Wisconsin cross country runners scored a surprise victory over the Gophers Saturday, winning by the easy score of 31-24.

RIPON BEATS CAMPION

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Nov. 1.—Ripon defeated Campion college, 20 to 0. Ripon made all their gains on line plunges. O'Brien's forty-five yard run was the feature. Ratchen and McKenna also starred for Campion, while Halverson and Wyman gained consistently for Ripon.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

THEDA BARA IN "SIN" AT MAJESTIC

The greatest and most widely observed of Italian religious festivals, the celebration of the feast of Our Lady of Carmel, is faithfully pictured in all its interesting and colorful details in the William Fox production of "Sin." The seething crowds, the gaily decorated stalls, each displaying wax emblems for the votaries of the feast to offer in gratitude for ills cured, the flags and the blazing lights of a score of colors are all seen in this wonderful picture in which Theda Bara is starred. It is like a leaf torn from one of the most interesting side of New York's kaleidoscopic life.

The great parade, which is the feature of the celebration and in which thousands take part, each marcher carrying a huge candle, which are in some cases so immense that they require three bearers, was "shot" by Director Herbert Brenon, with six cameras so placed that no detail escaped the lenses and the whole vivid picture is flung upon the screen in all its scintillating life and movement.

Be charitable to the living; the dead are not in a position to appreciate a monument.

BIG DOUGH-MIXER IN "MONEY MASTER"

One of the novel and interest-inciting "touches" in George Kleine's big five part feature "The Money Master" was the use of three two-ton dough-mixing machines rented from the manufacturers, Jaburg Brothers. These mighty props required the services of a corps of safe movers to get them into the studio. "The Money Master" is the first Kleine-Edison feature at the Bijou.

That part of the story for which the mixers were used is also one of strong, human-interest value. Frank Sheridan, who plays the ruthless, iron man of business, crushing competition and resorting to all forms of business malpractice in his efforts to reach the top, visits a Ghetto bakery in the course of the story. He has no sympathy for the wretches who eke out a precarious livelihood in the East side basement, maintaining that everyone can succeed if he wants to. To prove his theories and to win back his son, an East side worker who is estranged from him, the man of millions sends orders to his yacht to sail, spreads the rumor that he is on board for a long cruise, discards his clothes and starts life over as a helper in the Ghetto bakery. After studying conditions and without resources, he begins to build up an electrical bake-shop which is later to become a real bread trust. This he does without any outside help but his knowledge of business and banking. The purchase of the dough-mixing machines, on time, is one step toward this end.

"The Money Master" will be seen at the Bijou theater Tuesday and Wednesday this week.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Harry Southoff, district attorney of Dane county, would establish a work farm for the employment of men who abandon their wives. The money which would come from the labors of these men on the farm would be turned over to the wife who is dependent upon the husband for support. When the Dane county board of supervisors holds its meeting next week, District Attorney Southoff will appear before the board and advocate this plan. He says that the work farm would mete out the punishment to the male offenders, but without expense to their wives.

F. X. BUSHMAN IN "THE SILENT VOICE"

Nothing has been overlooked by the Quality studios to make "The Silent Voice" technically and artistically excellent. The expedient of advancing, receding and swinging the camera to command one vast exterior, instead of showing the corners of a big room by so many different sets, gives unusual atmosphere and attraction to these parts of the picture. The exterior locations are beautiful, and the photography is of the highest order. Nearly all the film has been re-developed into a rich sepia tone, adding greatly to the beauty of the general effect.

The story is that of a young musician, who is stricken with deafness on the eve of his great success. He becomes bitter, and secludes himself, until he meets the girl, when the world takes on a different color. After his marriage, a false friend tries to estrange his wife from him, with so much of success that the musician casts off both, and takes a vow to give the remainder of his life to the destruction of all beauty. He is turned from his purpose by an opportunity to aid a young couple in sore distress. Later he regains his hearing, and is happily reunited to his wife.

Marguerite Snow is convincing and finished in her portrayal of the girl and wife. There is no doubt "The Silent Voice" will be one of the most successful of Mr. Bushman's pictures.

At the Casino today and tomorrow.

COLD WEATHER RHEUMATISM

Why should rheumatism, a disease of the blood, be worse in cold weather than in summer?

The rheumatic poison in the blood is the predisposing cause of the disease. If you have the taint in your blood you may have rheumatism whenever the exciting cause stirs it to action. Cold weather and dampness are exciting causes of rheumatism. They excite to action something already in the blood, something that you must get rid of if you would be free from rheumatism.

What this something is, nobody knows. Not very long ago it was thought to be uric acid. Many doctors now think it a microscopic organism or a specific bacillus, but they cannot find the bacillus.

It is a known fact that in rheumatism the blood becomes thin rapidly, that building up the blood relieves the rheumatism and that there will be no return of the rheumatism as long as the condition of the blood is maintained. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recommended for rheumatism because they keep the blood rich and red and free from rheumatic poisons.

The free book, "Building Up the Blood" tells all about the treatment. Send for a copy today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

LOCAL MEN MEET SECRETARY M'ADOO

Postmaster Skaar, W. F. Wolfe and E. J. Kneen Attend Speech by Secretary of Treasury

DISCUSSES NORMAL BUILDING

State Engineering Department Will Send Man Here Within Short Time Says Mr. Wolfe

Postmaster Olaf R. Skaar, former Assemblyman E. J. Kneen of Bangor, and Attorney W. F. Wolfe returned today from Madison, where they heard the address of Secretary of the Treasury W. G. McAdoo at Wisconsin university. They also attended the reception given Mr. McAdoo at the Madison club last night.

Mr. Wolfe today declared that the visit of the three prominent local democrats to Madison had no political significance. He said that they had no conference with Mr. M'Adoo other than meeting him at the reception.

While in Madison Mr. Wolfe appeared before the executive board of the normal regents regarding the physical education building to be constructed at the normal school here. He said that State Engineer Mack, who attended the session, promised to send a representative here to look over the ground and pass upon the plans for the building, in the near future.

Secretary McAdoo's brief visit to Wisconsin was concluded yesterday afternoon when the official party left Madison for Washington. The secretary spent a day of great activity in the city. Just before he left he conferred with officials over the location of a new postofice site. The feature of Secretary McAdoo's visit was his address at the university convocation Saturday evening on military preparedness.

Secretary McAdoo urged the creation of a shipping board, consisting of the secretary of the navy and the secretary of commerce as members ex-officio and three members to be selected by the president. He said he believed congress should appropriate and put into the hands of this board $50,000 for the building of a naval auxiliary. These he asserted should be merchant ships of a new design to be used in times of peace in furthering our trade relations with foreign countries. He declared that these vessels should be built as quickly as possible and by their use the United States will increase its share of the world's trade. He declared the fact that practically all of our trade in the past has been carried in foreign bottoms.

to the fighting zone was also still delayed. The Rumanians were reported repeatedly just about to join the allies, but they failed to act.

Nothing further was heard concerning Russian forces said to be on their way to land on the Bulgarian Black sea coast. The allies' warships were again bombarding Bulgaria's Aegean sea frontage.

Varna Bombarded

BUCHAREST, via London, Nov. 1.—A Russian transport fleet was sighted off Baleik Sunday, it was learned here today. Destroyers escorted the flotilla. Aproaching the Bulgarian port of Varina, the transports dropped behind and the warships began bombarding the port.

Baleik is on the Rumanian Black sea coast, a few miles from the Bulgarian frontier. Varna, Bulgaria, is twenty miles to the southward. It and Burgas are Bulgaria's principal Black sea port.

Rumania Object of Conjecture

PARIS, Nov. 1.—In the face of positive statements that Rumania will permit Russians to pass through her territory to help the Serbians and that she herself will join the allies, the best opinions here was said today to be that the Rumanian action depends on actions.

It was pointed out that though the king was said to have withdrawn his opposition to union with the allies, he did not declare for such a union but left the matter to parliament, which has not yet expressed itself. That a majority of the headquarters staff was for war on the allies' side was also deemed inconclusive since the staff has not the deciding voice.

If Rumanio can get the territory it wants and be absolutely protected by Russia against the invasion, it was believed she will help the allies. It was doubted that if the Russians themselves are yet sure than they can give such protection.

THEY OPEN THE WEDDING YEAR

Einer Syverson and Miss Emma Nelson, both of the town of Hamilton, are the first persons to take out a marriage license in La Crosse this year.

They didn't think they would be a New Year couple, and much less that they would be the first couple to wed in the new year, but this is the way Bert A. Jolivette, county clerk, has it figured.

The county clerk explained that today is the first day of the county's new fiscal year.

ABOUT 300,000 BABIES DIE BEFORE ONE YEAR

Expectant mothers should strive to increase their strength with the strength-building fats in Scott's Emulsion which improves the blood, suppresses nervousness, aids the quality of milk, and feeds the very life cells.

The Carranza entrenchments on the south and east of Agua Prieta bristled with machine guns and a few heavier guns. Opposite the Carranzistas and only just out of range the Villistas had thrown up earthworks which were alive with riflemen.

Border Patrolled

The border was under heavy guard by American patrols with orders to prevent American "sight-seeing" when the battle opens.

The condition of Mexican refugees and the women and children camp followers in Agua Prieta was pitiful. In the way of the Carranza troops and in danger of death when the fighting starts, General Calles wished to send them across the order into Douglas immediately. Brig.-Gen. Davis and the American customs officers decided that the Mexicans could not be accommodated until an immediate camp was provided. If the battle opens before arrangements are completed for them, they probably will be allowed to cross, however.

Funston Goes to Douglas

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 1.—Major General Funston today was enroute from here to Douglas, Arizona, where he personally will direct the movements of the American forces in that region owing to the terrible stage of border conditions. He was accompanied by Major Hay, chief of staff, and a stenographer. They were scheduled to reach Douglas early Tuesday.

Robert V. Pasqueira, personal depresentative of Carranza, announced that the first chief will appoint a committee within a few days to cooperate with American military and civil authorities in suppressing banditry in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Carranza Travels

EAGLE PASS, Texas, Nov. 1.—General Carranza left Monclova on his special train at eleven o'clock this morning for Piedras Negras, after spending Sunday in Custro Cienegas, his birthplace. The running time between Monclova and Piedras Negras is seven hours, but short stops will be made at Sabinas and Nava.

General Obregon and his staff joined Carranza at Monclova, setting at rest rumors of a serious break between the first chief and his military leader. A military train accompanies the special.

Her skull had been crushed by a heavy hammer. She was known to have carried all of her savings in a pouch around her neck.

"N" Of Sharp Knife And Little Learning Sought By Park Dept.

Park department sleuths are keeping their eagle eyes "peeled" for a vandalistic person whose initial is "N," whose education is not all that it might be, and who is the possessor of a sharp knife and a passion for woodworking.

Every bench in Riverside park, during the summer, has been decorated with the initial of the mysterious Mr. "N." It has been deeply carved, with painstaking care, sometimes twice on a bench. Just recently a fresh "N" was found on the massive door of the Pettibone park toolhouse, and the department redoubled its desire to catch the carver.

The detail about the carver's education is deduced by Park Superintendent John Forrer from the fact that all of the "N's" are turned backward.

MALPRACTICE IS FILED TODAY

The Morrison Case Which Brought Examination Several Weeks Ago Comes Into Court

Suit to recover damages in the sum of $5,000 for alleged malpractice in connection with an operation for appendicitis was started in circuit court today against Dr. W. A. Henke and Dr. B. W. Mast, of the firm of Henke and Mast, physicians, and the La Crosse Hospital association, by George Morrison of Vernon county. Attorneys Baldwin and Bosshard filed the formal complaint for Morrison with Clerk of Court Frank H. Aiken today. Attorneys Wolfe, Wolfe and Reid will defend the physicians. The suit will be brought to trial at the term of court commencing next Monday.

Morrison claims that while he was under an anaesthetic, administered to him at the La Crosse hospital by Doctors Henke and Mast, the physicians allowed something to burn his right leg. The complaint filed states that Morrison suffered intensely with the injury from October, 1914, the date of the operation, until June 1, 1915.

Morrison was operated on for appendicitis. He alleges carelessness on the part of the physicians and nurses at the local institution, although he does not state in the complaint what substance he believes was placed on the member, causing the subsequent suffering.

Dr. Henke and Dr. Mast were examined in county court some weeks ago by Attorneys Baldwin and Bosshard under the discovery statute. The attorneys then indirectly charged that the powerful light of an X-ray had caused the trouble to Morrison's leg.

PROFESSORS ARE TORTURED BEFORE BEING EXECUTED

Instructors in Euphrates American College Victims of Turks, Says Letter

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 1.—Four professors of the Euphrates American college founded by American missionaries at Horpoot, Armenia, were horribly tortured by the Turks before being put to death, according to a letter made public here today by Rev. Robert Keating Smith of Westfield, Mass. The hair and mustache of one professor were pulled out by the roots. The nails of another were pulled out with pincers.

Seven-eighths of the students were deported, killed or exiled and the young girls carried away to harems, the letter said. The letter was written by an American connected with the college, Rev. Smith said, and was addressed to Bishop Casparian of Boston. It is dated July 19, 1915, but the name of the writer is withheld in the fear that he may be hunted and killed by the Turks.

Echoes of Busy Session of Federal Grand Jury Here Seen in Marshal's Trip to Reservation

Echoes of the recent busy session of the federal grand jury here will be heard when the United States circuit court convenes next Thursday at Superior. About twenty-five cases of persons indicted by the grand jury at La Crosse are expected to be tried at that time.

Deputy U. S. Marshal William Appleby has gone to the Bad River reservation to serve warrants on a number of the persons indicted, according to word from Madison today. The majority of the warrants, it was said, charge Indians with introducing liquor on the reservation.

JAILED FOR THEFT

James Wilson, 35, homeless, was sent to county jail today for a month for the theft of an overcoat from Carl C. Kurtenacker. Wilson took the coat from the La Crosse club, where he had been working.

DOCTOR PRESCRIBED VINOL

To Restore Strength to This Weak, Nervous, Woman.

Many fair-minded doctors prescribe Vinol because they know of what it is made, viz.—the medicinal extractives of fresh cod livers, peptonate of iron and beef peptone, without oil or grease, in a mild tonic wine. They know these are the oldest and most famous tonics. Read the result in Mrs. Mason's case.

"I keep house for my little family of two, and got into a weak, nervous, run-down condition. I was tired and weak and did not know what ailed me. My doctor prescribed Vinol. I noticed an improvement before I had finished the first bottle, and I am now feeling fine and doing all my housework." Mrs. M. S. Mason, 203 Passaic St., Trenton, N. J.

Every weak, nervous, run-down person, feeble old people and delicate child in La Crosse should try Vinol on our offer to return their money if it fails to benefit.

LA CROSSE BEATS CHIPPEWA IN BRILLIANT GAME AND STAYS IN RUNNING FOR STATE HONORS

KULCINSKI SCORES ALL POINTS FOR HORNE'S MACHINE

Chippewa Falls Makes the First Score Off La Crosse with Drop Early in the Game

(By Roswell C. Puckett)

In a game filled with brilliant runs, costly fumbles, many penalties, and hair raising forward passes, Chippewa Falls held the La Crosse team almost even the first half but was finally forced to give up before the terrific pounding of the La Crosse line and lost 19 to 3.

However, Chippewa Falls earned the distinction of being the only team to score on La Crosse to date. The score came as the result of a well placed drop kick from the 38-yard line at the end of three and one-half minutes' of play. Chippewa Falls had carried the ball down the field by a series of short runs and after being held for three downs, Sheeley dropped back and made the first score of the game. The crowd went wild as it looked like Chippewa Falls was outplaying La Crosse and was going to come out of the game the victors. But from this on the La Crosse defense stiffened and only once more during the entire game did the Falls team threaten. Just before the end of the first quarter they carried the ball to the La Crosse 24 yard line but lost it on a fumble and Roellig kicked out of danger.

The game was unusually free from injuries and not a single substitution was made during the entire game. Time was taken out but two or three times and in two of these cases it was to talk over the situation.

For Chippewa Falls, Sheeley was easily the star as he made some beautiful runs, many returns of punts, and got his passes away in good shape. Giguere, Holtz, and Taylor also made good gains.

For La Crosse, Kulcinski and Roellig, were the stars though Blatter and Laumann played great games in the line, breaking up many of the Chippewa plays. Kulcinski made all of the points for La Crosse, one of the touchdowns coming at the end of the game just as the whistle blew. Chippewa Falls tried a forward pass on her own 25 yard line in a last desperate effort to score and Kulcinski intercepted it with a clear field before him. The whistle blew as the pass was made to the Chippewa Falls quarterback but as the ball was not legally dead until play had stopped he completed his forward pass with the result that it added six points to the La Crosse total.

First Half

Chippewa Falls won the toss and chose to defend the south goal with a light breeze behind them. Laumann kicked to Taylor. Sheeley dropped back for a beautiful drop kick from the 38-yard line, at the end of three and one-half minutes of play. Falls was out-playing La Crosse and it looked as though La Crosse was going to have her record of victories spoiled.

Kulcinski Goes Over

Falls kicked to Kulcinski on his ten-yard line. The ball was returned to the center of the field. Blatter made five yards through right tackle, Roellig lost a yard through right tackle, Kulcinski made four through left tackle and Spettel made it first down through center. Bott made one-half yard around left end, Roellig three yard through right tackle, Feinberg one-half yard through center. La Crosse holding, penalized five yards. Third down and 11 to go. Roellig made nine through right tackle, La Crosse holding again made it fourth down and sixteen to go. Feinberg punted to Chippewa Falls' 35-yard line and recovered the ball on a fumble. Roellig failed to gain through center. Kulcinski made ten yards around left end. Blatter made eight through right tackle, and Kulcinski was thrown for no gain around left end. La Crosse holding, second down and seventeen to go. A twenty yard pass, Feinberg to Kulcinski was successful, and Kulcinski went over for a touchdown. Roellig failed to kick goal. Score: La Crosse 6; Chippewa Falls 3. Neither team scored during the remainder of the half, although Falls threatened.

The play had been about even with both teams fighting hard. Fumbles for Chippewa Falls had been very costly and penalties had cost La Crosse many yards. Roellig had been getting off some good punts and the ends had been getting the men in their tracks most of the time. Both teams showed good condition as no time had been taken out for injuries.

Second Half

La Crosse chose to defend the south goal and Chippewa Falls kicked to Hackner on his 30 yard line. The play was even for practically the entire quarter.

Tries Old Gag

Bringing the ball out to the 20-yard line, Chippewa Falls tried an old trick by walking out with the ball and then running the entire length of the field for a touchdown but it was not allowed as the referee had not blown his whistle for play to begin. The ball was brought back to the Chippewa Falls' twenty-yard line. Giguere made no gain through right tackle, Endres broke through and blocked Taylor for a loss, and a forward pass failed just as the whistle blew for the third quarter. La Crosse 6; Chippewa Falls 3.

After an exchange of punts, La Crosse got the ball on a kick and Feinberg returned it to the center of the field. Then they started a procession down the field for their second score.

Louie Scores Again

La Crosse was holding, making it La Crosse's ball for first down on her own 35-yard line. Roellig made five through right tackle, Kulcinski six around left end, Roellig six through center on a shift play, and Blatter made it first down on Chippewa Falls 37-yard yard line. Bott made nine around left end, Roellig ten around right end, and Kulcinski made a twenty-yard run around left end for a touchdown. Roellig kicked goal. La Crosse 13; Chippewa Falls 3.

La Crosse kicked to Holtz on his 15 yards line. Holtz returned to his 40 yards line. Chippewa Falls was getting desperate and began a varied attack with forward passes but La Crosse blocked every one of them and took the ball on the Chippewa Falls 40-yard line. Gerrard made 15 around right end. La Crosse held, making its first down on her own 40-yard line.

Roellig kicked to Chippewa Falls' 32-yard line. The ball finally went to La Crosse on downs on the Chippewa Falls' 40-yard line. Blatter made five yards around right end, Bott lot one yard around left end on a shift play, Roellig made two yards around right end and then kicked to Chippewa Falls' 25-yard line. Chippewa Falls again made a desperate effort to score with a forward pass and the long passes made it look as though the La Crosse's goal may be crossed if one of them should be successful. On the third pass, however, Kulcinski intercepted just as the whistle blew and ran 25 yards to a touchdown. Roellig missed goal. La Crosse 19; Chippewa Falls 3.

Treatment accorded the La Crosse contingent at Chippewa Falls was the best received by the local team on any of its visits this year, members of the squad said today.

PORTAGE LAD LEADS COLGATE TO WIN OVER THE BULLDOG

Abell and His Men Give Yale Second Beating in Three Years by 15 to 0 Score

NEW HAVEN, Cinn., Nov. 1.—Little Colgate crushed big Yale on Saturday, 15 to 0, Capt. Abell of Portage, Wis., leading his men to the second defeat of Yale in three years. At no time were the Elis dangerous, and never was the goal of the small New York upstate college threatened. Yale displayed the poorest football ever shown by an eleven wearing the blue, making only eight first downs during the game and none during the final period.

Princeton, 27; Williams, 0

PRINCETON, Nov. 1.—Although the Tigers had four varsity players up at Boston scouting on the Harvard team, Princeton managed to roll up 27 points on Williams this afternoon, and Williams failed to score.

Oregon A. C., 20; M. A. C., 0

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 1.—Hopes of the Michigan Aggies that they might possibly be considered as contenders for the western football championship as a result of their victory over Michigan went glimmering Saturday when the Oregon Aggies trounced the farmers, 20 to 0.

Harvard, 13; Penn State, 0

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 1.—Harvard defeated the Penn State team, 13 to 0, Saturday, in a game that demonstrated that the Crimson is comparatively weak without the presence of Mahan.

ONE POINT LOSES GAME FOR BADGERS AGAINST MAROONS

Dope Upset and Wisconsin Loses Heartbreaking Battle on Bad Kick from Touchdown

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—With a back field of stars whose stellar work made the Badgers' brilliance look dim, the University of Chicago football team downed Wisconsin, 14 to 13, on the Midway Saturday afternoon.

Although the victory was by but one point, Stagg's eleven, showing a most wonderful reversal of form and upsetting completely all of the best critics' dope, earned the game and in the last half thoroughly outplayed the Badgers. Shull, the Maroon left tackle, really won the game when he made two successful goal kicks after the touchdowns that were made by Russell and Gordon. Simpson, the Badger quarter, failed to kick the second touchdown that Lynn Smith, who was the only glimmer of light in the Wisconsin offense, made in the second quarter.

What really stopped the Badgers was the complete covering of Dow Byers, who was hailed as the wonder of the Wisconsin attack. The Badgers' left half never got away for much of anything during the course of the entire game, and what little brilliant work he did was lost notice of by the spectacular play of Stagg's great backfield.

Captain Russell was the shining light of the whole affair, and it was only his late start on his real stellar work that kept the Maroons from piling up a still higher score. Time and again the fleet Peter made first down on a single run, and Captain Buck of Wisconsin was the only man on the Badger squad who was able to stop him.

Smith Makes Score

Although Galvin, who played the whole game at full for Wisconsin, furnished a thrill for the 3,000 Badger rooters when he received the ball on the kickoff in the second quarter and ran fifty-five yards through the entire Maroon team, the only strong offensive work that was done by the Badgers was through the efforts of Lynn Smith, who, not being watched so closely as Byers, was able to make both of Wisconsin's scores.

Within four minutes after Wisconsin kicked off to Gordon, Buck picked up one of Simpson's punts that Russell had fumbled on his own thirty yard line and Lynn Smith carried the ball over for the first score. Simpson had no trouble kicking the first goal, and after five minutes of play the score stood: Wisconsin, 7; Chicago, 0.

On the next kickoff Russell found himself and made first down twice in as many individual runs.

The Wisconsin defense, however, did its only good work at this time, and held Russell, Norgren, Flood and Gordon for ten minutes. But this did not last, and Chicago was playing better at the end of the first quarter.

Smith Scores Again

In the second session the Maroon offense grew still stronger and with two long runs by Russell to help him, Gordan ran twenty-five yards for a touchdown and Shull kicked goal.

This woke the Badgers up. A forward pass to Captain Buck brought the ball down where Smith again carried it over.

Simpson failed on the second goal and right here Wisconsin lost the point that lost the game, for there was no chance for the Badgers to score in the second half, Wisconsin just went to piece and Russell and Shull added the seven points that cinched the Maroon victory.

Captain Buck tried his best in the last quarter to make his men stand up again but whenever a score looked possible either Byers or Smith would fumble and, while this added to the excitement of the play, it was one of the greatest causes of Wisconsin's defeat, for when the final whistle sounded the ball was in Badger territory and the score was Chicago 14, Wisconsin 13.

ILLINI AND THE GOPHERS PLAY TIE AND STAY IN RACE

Illini Come from Behind in Second Quarter and Even Up the Score

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 1.—Illinois and Minnesota played a 6 to 6 tie here on Saturday. Both teams remained in the running for the conference championship. In the fourth period victory seemed well in the grasp of Minnesota, when, on the fourth down, on a wild pass by Watson, the Illinois center, the ball rolled down to the Illinois six yard line and a Minnesota player recovered it. Minnesota advanced to the one foot line, but the Illinois line held the visitors for downs and Macomber punted out of danger.

Minnesota pushed the ball over the Illinois line for its score within a few minutes of play. In the second quarter Illinois strengthened their defense and Halstrom's long sprint made it possible for them to score.

Clark and Macomber were stars of Illinois, with Halstrom showing well and Klein, Pogue's understudy, performing in excellent fashion. Brenneman and Applegram, green members of the line, were removed because of injuries. Wyman and Long were the best ground gainers for the visitors. On forward passes they made repeated long gains for Minnesota. There was an absence of spectacular plays.

The lineup:

Illinois (6)—Squier, le: Rundquist, lt; Applegram, lg; Watson, c; Stewort, rg; Petty, rt; Brenneman, re; Clark, qb; Klein, lhb; Macomber, rhb; Halstrom, fb.

KRONER HARDWARE COMPANY OBSERVES FIFTIETH YEAR OF BUSINESS SUCCESS

The Fred Kroner Hardware company is celebrating their fiftieth year in business in La Crosse this week. The retail store at 116-118 South Third street is in gala attire, and the public has been invited to visit the store to see what is said to be one of the most complete retail hardware establishments in western Wisconsin. Souvenirs are being given to all visitors.

The officers of the company are receiving congratulations from concerns all over the country as well as from local business men on the occasion of their golden anniversary.

From Hogshead to Car-load

The business was established in 1865 by Fred Kroner in a building on Front and State streets, opposite the Spence-McCord Drug company. A striking illustration of the growth of the Kroner business in fifty years may be drawn from two statements of fact. One is that the first consignment of hardware placed in stock in the original Kroner store was shipped in a single hogshead. The other is that the present Kroner company receives and places in stock many carloads of stock weekly.

In the later 60's Mr. Kroner purchased a lot and built a building at 219 Pearl street. In 1874 Mr. Kroner again built to meet his growing needs. This second building was built at 116-118 South Third street, and now houses the retail department. In 1882 he branched into the jobbing business, and his eldest son, George Kroner, went on the road and began laying the foundation for the present prosperous business. Two years later John C. Kroner, now president of the firm, also went on the road, and a few years later G. F. Kroner, now vice president, became a traveling salesman in the interest of his father.

In 1892 Mr. Kroner began the erection of the large wholesale house on the corner of Third and Jay streets. The building was occupied in 1893, but Mr. Kroner did not live to see that event. He died in May of that year, and thus came to a close one of the most active and productive careers given by any La Crosse business man to the upbuilding of the community.

Founder and Present President

Fred Kroner, Founder Fred Kroner Hardware Co.

John C. Kroner, President of Present Company.

The Present Firm

The Kroner brothers incorporated the business after the death of their father with the following officers:

John C. Kroner, president.
G. F. Kroner, vice president.
Ludwig F. Kroner, secretary.
Henry A. Kroner, treasurer.

During their fifty years in business the Fred Kroner Hardware company has maintained its standing as one of the most solid business concerns in the country. Panics and business depressions had no effect on them, and the fact that a healthy growth has always been an established fact, until at the present time their activities cover every state in this territory, is a splendid testimony to the energy and ability of the men who administer the affairs of the company.

DRUNKENNESS IS AN UNKNOWN QUANTITY IN CITY OF SPARTA

"Dry" Regime Decreases Intoxication Over 400 Per Cent and These Are Strangers

SPARTA, Wis., Nov. 1.—(Special.)—Intoxication in Sparta has been reduced more than 400 per cent Since July 1, when Sparta was voted "dry" by a good majority, only ten drunks have been arraigned before Justice Lamson, while the same period of four months in 1914 brought a total of forty-two cases of intoxication. Twenty per cent of the cases during the four months of this year were those of strangers. Several have been put of trains and turned over to the police. The town is "dry" with a vengeance.

Basketball Season Planned

At a meeting last week, members of Company L made preliminary plans for the coming basketball season. Kenneth McConnell was elected captain of the team to be and Alec Nicols manager. Rehearsals will begin in the near future. A fine lot of material is available and one of the fastest teams of the state should result. Spartas will have a chance to see some fine exhibitions of the game as it is the plan of the management to bring only the best teams here.

CARDINAL PRESIDES AT SERVICES FOR VICTIMS OF FIRE

PEABODY, Mass., Nov. 1.—Seventeen little white coffins stood end to end at the chancel rail of St. John's church today when funeral services were held for child victims of the fire that swept through St. John's parochial school on Thursday.

Cardinal O'Connell officiated. Business was suspended and the church was filled to overflowing.

All factories and stores were closed early this forenoon and remained closed until after the funeral services. Other victims of the school disaster will be buried at private services tomorrow and Monday.

GREECE WILL STAY OUT OF CONFLICT SHEPARD CLAIMS

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPARD
United Press Staff Correspondent.

Copyright, 1915, by the United Press.

ATHENS, Nov. 1.—Chances that Greece will enter the war are of the remotest at present. Greek public opinion concerning participation in the struggle is exactly what public opinion is in the United States. Everybody wants to keep out of it.

If the Bulgarians, in their fight with Serbia, should spill over the Greek frontier, a small Graeco-Bulgarian conflict would be possible. Germany promises, however, that the Bulgarians will not do this.

Ex-Premier Venizelos remains in Athens.

The American cruiser Des Moines dominates the busy scene in the harbor of the Piraeus, the port of Athens.

ORDERS RE-ARGUMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The supreme court today ordered the reargument of the West Virginia liquor cases involving the constitutionality of the Webb-Kenyon law.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—After shooting upward to dizzy heights Bethlehem Steel, leader of the "war stocks" dipped sharply on the New York Stock exchange today, opening 24¾ points under Saturday's close.

The record high mark for Steel was reached October 22, when the stock sold at 600. Today it was quoted at 475 bid and 510 asked in the forenoon trading.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The stock market was active at the opening today but there was little excitement. The list generally was a trifle higher though the strong bullish feeling of Saturday was absent. Baldwin Locomotive, strong on Saturday, was off ½ at the start today. U. S. Steel opened at 88¼ to 88⅜, gains of ⅜ to ½. This is a new high record. Railroad stocks generally were up ½.

The strength of the railroad stocks became the feature as the market grew more active and continued to advance. Norfolk & Western sold at 121, a new high record and 1¾ above the previous record made in 1912.

Bethlehem Steel's sharp drop of more than 25 points was the feature of the trading around noon. During the early hours the heaviest trading was in United States Steel, which ranged in prices from 87⅝ to 88⅜c as compared with Saturday's closing price of 87¾c.

The sharp decline in Bethletem Steel was accompanied by a reaction in other war stocks and in motor issues, but later in the afternoon the market steadied.

Missouri Pacific closed with a three point gain and M. K. & T. was up 1¾. U. S. Steel closed at 87, off ⅞ and Baldwin Locomotive at 131, off 3½.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Heavy receipts at spring wheat terminals caused early recessions in today's prices. A strong buying movement on the dip, however, later caused prices to rise sharply. The opening was down 1¾c and ⅞ to $1.01 and $1.02¼. Later there were advances of 1½c and $1⅞c.

Corn and oats followed the trend of wheat.

Provisions were lower on heavy receipts.

(Copyright, 1915, by the New York Evening Post.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The vigorous recovery, which began with the Stock exchange opening today, converged on the railway shares. Advances of 1 to 2 points were numerous on an unusually active business; and what was perhaps of special interest, a very considerable number of these stocks today went above the previous top prices of the year. For this movement, the news of traffic larger than railway facilities can handle promptly, and the tradition that railway shares reflect increasing trade prosperity, were primarily responsible.

Some of the war industrials followed the upward movement of the railways, but as a whole the market for those stocks was irregular.

A comprehensive view of the week's stock market, with its very unusual variations, will probably leave the speculative community in considerable doubt. On the one hand, it will be pointed out that prices broke on the Stock exchange while rumors of peace negotiations prevailed and resumed their upward movement, when the English and French authorities repudiated the reports. On the other hand, it will be argued that the standard investment shares displayed their greatest strength when the "war industrials" were weakest.

PUBLISHER KILLS SELF

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 1.—Colonel Edward .L Preetorius, president of the German-American Publishing company of St. Louis, ended his life in his home early today by shooting him self in the head. Preetorius, as head of the publishing firm, held an interest in the St. Louis Times and the Westliche Post, a St. Louis German newspaper. He was injured two years ago in an automobile accident and never fully recovered. Preetorius was a member of the staff of Herbert S. Hanley, when the latter was governor of Mississippi.

DEMENTED MAN BLAMED

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—John Stockdale, a wealthy retired merchant of Lake Park, Ia., was beaten to death, according to the police, in his room in a private sanatorium here on Saturday by Oliver Bennett of Beloit, Wis., a patient in an adjoining room, who had been under treatment for mental disorders.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine get cloudy, full of sediment, the channel often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

ANNUAL HUNTERS' MEET SUCCESS

Thirty-five Hunters and Sixty-five Dogs Make Merry; Galesville Gets 1916 Meet

GALESVILLE, Wis., November 1. —(Special.)—Galesville will have at least one of her young men in the great European war. James Suter, well known here, will leave soon for his home in New Zealand, where he will enlist with the colonial forces of England and probably be transferred to some European battlefield. He is a native New Zealander and says that he believes his boyhood home and country need him.

Hunters Have Meet

The annual hunters' reunion at Arctic Springs closed with another successful session on Sunday. Attendance and results surpassed any previous meet held here. The annual gathering opened on Thursday under very favorable weather conditions and continued for four days. The weather man was kind enough to allow the fine weather to continue through the period, so an enjoyable time was reported by all. Thirty-five hunters and sixty-five dogs were encamped and the scene and noise reminded one of an oldtime wolf hunt. The drag race was won by A. Marco of Onalaska; in the puppy races, those owned by Gust Chapiewieske of Leon, gathered first honors over all others. The fox race did not finish well, so no decision was given. However, two foxes were bagged during the course of events. Hundreds of people from the town and surrounding country visited the grounds on Sunday. Galesville was unanimously chosen as the place for the 1916 reunion. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Charles Sturdevant of Melvina; secretary, H. O. Benrud of Galesville, treasurer; Gust Chapiewieske, Leon; committee, William Diehow, Wilton; C. Moe, Holmen; Edward Poerington, Viola; Tom Brown, Sparta.

GLOVES FOR THE FEET

The beautiful new gypsy boots that fit like gloves are greatly in demand.

The fact that they are scarce and hard to get makes them all the more to be desired.

When you slip your foot into a new Walk-Over gypsy boot you will be delighted. It is so good looking, novel and unusual, too.

You will admire the artistic effect of this trim, almost seamless boot, for the glove-like fit is completely in accord with the fall of 1915 costumes.
